Remediation Products, Inc. Launches RPI-Group

Exclusive Consortium Specializes In The World's Most Successful In Situ Remediation Approach

For Immediate Release - Wednesday, November 30, 2011

Golden, CO - Remediation Products, Inc., the originator of the successful Trap & Treat® approach, announced Wednesday that it will form the RPI-Group, a consortium dedicated to disseminating the knowledge and procedures necessary for successful deployment of Trap & Treat® applications. This groundbreaking consortium brings together a network of Approved Installers and a Quality Assurance Network of certified consultants and regulators – experienced environmental remediation professionals with the common goal of ensuring the highest possible results from applications of BOS 100® and BOS 200® every time.

RPI-Group embodies an approach unique in its field, combining real science with decades of real-world field expertise in installations of the most effective in situ remediation products on the market today. “Using great products is only part of the equation when it comes to successful in-situ remediation,” notes Bob Elliott, Chief Executive Officer of RPI. “No in situ remediation product company has ever made this kind of commitment to project quality control.”

The group’s philosophy is simple: great products are not enough, and better installation protocols produce better results. To that end, RPI-Group has developed rigorous controls related to remediation-specific investigation, installer training, and project quality control. RPI-Group members are carefully selected to represent the Trap and Treat® line – and the group is currently accepting applications from injection companies, environmental consulting firms, and regulators interested in joining the consortium.

“This is the biggest news that we have announced since the invention of Trap & Treat BOS 100® and BOS 200®,” says Elliott. “Together, RPI-Group and its Quality Assurance Network will sustain a level of success unheard of in the environmental business.” To learn more, visit www.trapandtreat.com
